Fair Play for Industry Is Vital Need, Coal Operators Told at Notable Gathering

Closer Co-Operation Also Stressed at Dinner to 250
at Summit.

RAILWAY MEN SPEAK

"Fair play for industry" might be termed the keynote running through a series of addresses at the most notable gathering of its kind in the history of Fayette county Thursday night when 250 coal and coke operators of Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia assembled at the Summit Hotel for a dinner and discussion of problems confronting them. It was voiced by the speakers in behalf of the coal industry and the same message was carried by representatives of the railroads who were invited to the conference.

Eighty-seven per cent of the coke produced in Western Pennsylvania and 90 per cent of the coal in the district were represented in the gathering, in which were the leading operators of the western part of the State and many from West Virginia. Men nationally prominent in the coal and coke and transportation interests of the country were present as guests and speakers during the evening, and brought to the assembled coal and coke operators in interest there a message of vital interest to the industry.

Two members of the Bituminous Operators' Special Committee, representing the coal industry's case before the United States Coal Commission, two officers of the National Coal Association and three high officials representing the transportation interests principally serving the Fayette-Greene territory were on the program during the evening.

The conference was held under the auspices of the Fayette-Greene Coal Producers Association, Connellsville, was represented by not less than a score of coal and coke men.

Because of the many problems confronting them the vital need of operators organizing was stressed. Calling attention to a quotation from the front of the program reading, "Industry is best nurtured by the milk of human kindness," T. W. Guthrie, president of the Hillman Coal & Coke Company, the first speaker, indicated that there is not anything like an oversupply of the aforementioned milk for the coal industry, and declared that it behooves operators to look after their interests by joint action.

"The industry has reached the point," Mr. Guthrie said, "where individual effort has met its limitations. Now must come joint effort. If we are to secure the attention we deserve it must be by cooperative action."

There never was a time in the history of the coal and coke industries, Mr. Guthrie said, when there was the necessity for harmony of action among the operators that exists today. "It is hardly necessary to say," he went on, "that we have the labor situation." The local branch of the Progressive Miners' Union is active, he said, and consequently the operator cannot allow himself to stand idly by. "We must take counsel and stand together," he declared, "or we will be overcome." He referred to legislation aimed at industry, saying no less than 40 bills introduced in the session just closed. Mr. Guthrie said he had no criticism to make of the efforts of the labor interests, but that in the face of facts the operators must be prepared to defend themselves and this, he emphasized, can best be done by more efficient co-operation.

Discussing the problems of the railroads, H. C. Cleveland, coal freight agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, expressed the belief that the carriers are left alone to work out their problem without so much interference giving first-class service to the public in every line. "I want you to believe with us that new legislation is no more needed for the railroads than for coal," he said. "What we all want is service and I feel confident that if we are not molested we will give it."

Referring to the coal and coke business Mr. Cleveland said he felt that during the last 10 or 12 years it had been as well handled and as well administered as any industry in the country.

Operations of the Bituminous Operators' Special Committee was detailed by the chairman of that committee, J. C. Brydon, of Somerset county. Referring to the enactment of the legislation of 1922, establishing the fact finding legislation and the United States Coal Commission, Mr. Brydon recognized the organization of the Bituminous Operators Association, made possible because of the National Coal Association and representing more than 90 per cent of the bituminous production of the nation, including union and non-union fields and members and non-members of the National Coal Association, in presenting the case of the industry which in effect, was indicated before the public by the legislation setting up the United States Coal Commission.

WEST VIRGINIA OPERATORS TALK FREIGHT RATES

The regular membership meeting of the Monongahela Coal Association was held yesterday afternoon at the Summit Hotel, President John H. Jones presiding. Matters of importance particularly concerning freight rates from Monongahela Railway, points to the valleys, were discussed. A committee was appointed to determine whether the association should make a fight before the Interstate Commerce Commission and will report at the next meeting. H. C. Cleveland, coal freight agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and John C. Brydon, chairman of the Bituminous Operators' Special Committee, addressed the meeting briefly.

Most of the West Virginia operators, of whom nearly 30 were present, remained for the banquet given by the Fayette-Greene Coal Producers Association.

West Penn Girls Put on First Aid Program, Scottsdale

The West Penn girls' first aid team put on its first demonstration last night at a salubrious party held in the Legion rooms in Scottsdale under the auspices of the Girls' Auxiliary to the Cokes Region Division, West Penn Section, N. E. L. A. The team, organized about two months ago by W. H. Kenney and J. W. McKelvie, has been working faithfully and is the first organization of that kind to be made up of girls.

When the organizers of the team found it necessary to give up its promotion because of other duties the work was taken up by Fred C. Smith and the girls have progressed rapidly. The members of the team are very much interested over the work and are a real credit to the West Penn.

Miss Rae Boyd is the team captain. Others on it are Misses Lillian Trenberth, Miss Stella Baker, Miss Ruth Nelson and Miss Katherine Houck. Little Miss Eleanor Cable was the subject last evening.

The team completed two problems. In the first the patient had come in contact with a live wire and artificial resuscitation for two minutes was necessary. In addition, a laceration to the scalp had to be treated and there were burns on the back.

In the second problem the patient had fallen from a street car, receiving a broken jaw, a laceration of the right arm and a crushed foot. After the injuries had been treated the patient was carried.

In addition to the first aid demonstration there were readings by Miss Mary Madden of Mount Pleasant and a lunch was served.

counsel in the country, organization of its own fact-finding agencies and the presentation of the various reports and briefs also placed before the commission was outlined by Mr. Brydon. He referred to the close organization of the union in the country and the method used by the union in presenting its case; of its breach in the matter of publicity; of the Lewis dream of world empire in industry, referring to John L. Lewis' trip to Europe and its possible purpose. An interesting point was the fact that the Mine Workers Union collects at least 15 million dollars a year for the furtherance of its work without an accounting being made and of the Operators Committee's demands that the United States Coal Commission investigate the use made of that fund.

He detailed the organization of the committee, three members being non-union operators, three members being union operators, and the seventh being an operator with his operations equally divided between the union and the non-union fields.

The coal operator is vitally concerned with the cost to the consumer, said J. D. Batto, traffic manager of the National Coal Association, replying to an assertion made a few

Stamboulisky Is Slain Trying To Flee Troops

By Associated Press.
SOFIA, June 15.—Former Premier Stamboulisky of Bulgaria has been killed while trying to escape. The end of the peasant leader's career follows a series of dramatic developments beginning with the overthrow of his government in the early hours of last Saturday and the formation of a coalition government, including all the opposition parties with the exception of the Communists.

Alexander Stamboulisky, known as the peasant premier, was one of the most picturesque personalities in Bulgarian history. A man of massive frame and tremendous energy, he was described by his opponent as "a bull in a china closet," but there was no doubt of his popularity. Of the humblest peasant origin, he rose to the power of a dictator, solidifying under his leadership the widespread opposition to the war policies of former King Ferdinand who threw the fortunes of his country on the scale on the side of the Central Powers in the World War.

SOFIA, June 15.—The Bulgarian telegraphic Agency confirms the capture of former Premier Stamboulisky at Molav. The semi-official announcement said:

"The feeble and isolated resistance which the adherents of Stamboulisky endeavored to make has been finally overcome. Perfect order prevails throughout the country."

LONDON, June 15.—A Sofia dispatch asserts that former Premier Stamboulisky tried to force King Boris to abdicate in his favor so he could become king of Bulgaria himself. Quoting newspaper accounts of the alleged plot on the part of the ex-premier to detain Boris, the correspondent says Stamboulisky planned to be crowned King Alexander II on December 12 of this year.

Verdict Favoring Mrs. Bula Croker Returned by Jury

DUBLIN, June 15.—A verdict in favor of Mrs. Bula Croker was found by the jury in the contest over the will of the late Richard Croker this afternoon.

The jury's verdict, which was returned after deliberation of an hour and a quarter was that Mr. Croker had made his will with full knowledge of its contents, that he was of sound mind, memory and understanding at the time the document was executed and that it was made without undue influence from his wife, Bula.

The allegation that Bula was already the wife of Guy R. Marne at the time of her marriage to Croker was declared by the jury to be unsubstantiated. The jury also found Mrs. Croker not guilty of influencing her husband against his children.

Murder Jury Out Seven Days Finds One Guilty, Frees Two Companions

By Associated Press.
PITTSBURGH, June 15.—After deliberating for seven days the jury in the murder case growing out of a $20,000 payroll robbery on December 23, last, today returned a verdict finding one defendant guilty in the first degree and freeing two others. The men were indicted for the killing of J. Ross Dennis, paymaster of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, who was carrying the Christmas pay for miners at Beading.

Dan Rastoff was found guilty, while Orlando Pabbi and John Burckhardt, all of Washington county, were acquitted.

A gang of bandits held up the paymaster's party on the Beading road, Dennis, riding in a motor car, was on a motorcycle, was wounded when the robbers leaped from the bushes. After falling the paymaster tried to draw his pistol and one bandit rolled him over and fired into his back with a shotgun.

Prosecution witnesses during the trial identified the three men as members of the bandit gang. Defense witnesses testified the defendants were at work in the mines at the time.

Defense counsel asked that the jury be polled. When the name of Mrs. Blanche Bickel, only woman member, was called she answered that she found Rastoff guilty of murder in the first degree.

Burchardt and Pabbi were taken back to the county jail pending disposition of an involuntary manslaughter indictment against them. Sabert also is wanted in Fayette county in connection with the theft of a Railway Coal Company payroll in March, 1923.

By Associated Press.
CANTON, N. Y., June 15.—A pair women's silk stockings caused a killing here today. Michael Dizon brought stockings to the home of Dominick Mitka where he was boarding. Mitka, according to a neighbor, accused Dizon of buying the hose for Mrs. Mitka. "My husband jumped on me and beat me fearfully," Mrs. Mitka was quoted as saying. "He ran out of our room and then I heard two pistol shots. Then they found Michael dead in his room."

Mitka has not been found by the police.

ELKS CARRY OUT SUCCESSFUL FLAG DAY OBSERVANCE

Last Crawford avenue was filled last evening with people attending the Flag Day celebration conducted by the Connellsville Lodge No. 563, B. P. O. E. Elks. The Elks program was the only formal observance of the day in Connellsville aside from a good display of flags.

The program opened at 8 o'clock and was brief. The Connellsville Military Band played patriotic airs followed by an announcement by W. D. McGinnis, the chairman, who said the purpose of the celebration was to raise a new flag over the Elk House and to re-pledge allegiance. Homer P. Moser, exalted ruler of the local lodge, raised the flag to the top of the staff as the band played "The Star Spangled Banner."

Wooda N. Carr of Uniontown was the principal speaker. He spoke on the flag and what it stands for. The crowd was very attentive but traffic passing unimpeded through the street, caused a number of interruptions.

The winners of the essay contest, conducted in the city schools before they closed for the term, under the auspices of the local Elks, were announced by Mr. McGinnis. The essays were written on the flag and were open to children between 8 and 12 years. Thomas Scott, 11, in the sixth grade of the public schools won first prize of $20 in gold. Catherine C. Conlan, 11, fifth grade of the Parnassus schools was awarded second prize of $15 in gold. Jean Buttermore, 10, a student in the fifth grade of the public schools, won third prize of $10. Francis Rendine, 9, third grade Parnassus school, won fourth prize of $5.

The meeting closed when Harry Cook, chairman of the essay committee, presented the winners with the prizes. Mayor W. H. Smart of Uniontown, read the essay written by Thomas Scott and Mr. Cook read the essay by Francis Rendine.

TAX ON MANUFACTURERS

Forms Another Source of Revenue to Meet the Requirements of Appropriations and the Maintenance of Government for Next Biennium.

HARRISBURG, June 15.—The Legislature adjourned shortly before 7 o'clock last evening, having adopted the expedient of wrapping the clocks at 12 o'clock, the official hour of adjournment, 4 hours, and 12 minutes before the actual adjournment.

The final session was marked by the passage of the general appropriation bill, the Armington bill taxing the profits of manufacturing concerns, the Henderson bill imposing a tax of two cents per gallon on liquid fuels, the defeat of the proposed amendment of the Workmen's Compensation Act, the abandonment of the $250,000 prohibition law enforcement fund, and an address by Governor Pinchot to a joint session of both houses summarizing the work of the session.

The so-called profits tax bill, which imposes a tax of one-half of one per cent on the net income of corporations doing business within the state, is estimated will yield about $14,000,000, and the liquid fuel tax about $7,000,000 revenue, or a total of about $21,000,000 during the ensuing two years beginning July 1. This is the amount estimated as necessary in addition to other revenues, to provide for the expenses of the government and to meet the appropriations during the biennium.

The liquid fuel tax bill, which was introduced by Representative White-man of Latrobe, was introduced in the House by Representative J. B. Henderson of Connellsville.

Under terms of the Henderson bill, as amended to make it a part of the biennial budgeting program, it will replace the act of 1921. There will be a regular stamp duty of one cent per gallon or fraction imposed on all liquid fuels coming under the act except for purposes of resale and "an additional emergency state tax" of one cent for the two years commencing July 1, next, and ending June 30, 1925.

Most of the regular tax is to be returned to counties, where it is collected on the same principle as the present law. An important feature of the bill is that dealers, small manufacturers, etc., shall make quarterly reports. In April, July, October and January for the sales of the preceding three months. This same plan will apply to sellers of gasoline not classed as dealers, who must report to whom sales were made and in what quantities.

Every dealer must file a statement within 30 days from approval of the act, giving business places, penalty of $1,000. The penalty clause for failing to observe the requirements of reports are made applicable to any official or employee of the dealer and it is required in making reports the price at which sales were made, should be separately reported from the amount of the tax.

Payment of tax must be made when reports are filed. The Auditor General is given authority to investigate any returns of sales and a dealer dissatisfied with the final settlement may appeal. Where the Auditor General must make an estimated settlement there can be no appeal.

The bill which defines liquid fuel as "all liquids ordinarily, practically and commercially usable in internal combustion engines for the generation of power," was passed as a companion measure to the Henderson tax bill. The Williams bill fixing automobile drivers' fee at $1 each was also passed finally.

Rep. J. B. Henderson
HOME FROM HARRISBURG

Accompanied by Mrs. Henderson Representative J. B. Henderson arrived home from Harrisburg this morning to resume his duties as a citizen following the adjournment of the Legislature last night. During the session Mr. and Mrs. Henderson occupied a residence within easy reach of the Capitol.

Mr. Henderson expressed himself as generally pleased with the work accomplished during the session, particularly that Governor Pinchot had been successful in carrying out his program in all its essential particulars.

With his regular duties and as member of the banking, auditing and other important committees, Representative Henderson was kept busy throughout the session. He speaks most highly of the character and service of his colleagues from Fayette county, all of whom gave closest attention to public business and overlooked no opportunity to promote the best interests of the district they represented.

NATIONALIZATION ANTHRACITE MINES, IS URGED BY U.M.W.

Submit Complete Plan to the United States Coal Commission.

CLAIM COSTS INFLATED

Propose a Bond Issue Based on "Sacrifice Value" for Present Stock and Bonds, to be Retired in 50 Years by Sinking Fund of 25 Cents a Ton.

A complete plan for nationalization of Pennsylvania anthracite mines, with operation under a control equally representing the miners, mine managers and the public has been laid before the United States Coal Commission by the miners' union. With it was submitted some criticism of the commission's present cost finding methods, and a request for public hearing on the miner's proposal. An alternative plan for a general production of capital investment and capital charges in the industry also was submitted.

Based on the miners' opinion that "limitation of the investor's constantly encroaching claims upon the not industry is now in order," the plan was declared to confine the claims of investors "to reasonable limits," to provide for "permitting the standard of living of miners to grow with the productive expansion of the country," and to bring about adjustment "of price to consumer to these two factors."

The alternative plan proposed the elimination of present ownership of the anthracite mines by the substitution of six per cent bonds, based on "sacrifice value" for the present stock and other securities and the setting up of sinking funds which would pay off the bonds in 50 years.

The "sacrifice value in the turn-over, the plan explained, would be the original cost of the mining properties, less any profits over a reasonable return rate which the owners have obtained during development and operation, or plus any deficits under reasonable return which they have incurred. The miners' figures indicate that a total value of $400,000,000 would be found on this basis for existing anthracite deposits, and that this value could be retired by a charge of 25 cents per ton of coal mined, as compared with 75 cents which it was said owners took in 1914 operations, and $1.10 per ton which it was estimated they took in 1922-23. The valuation plan was declared to be suitable "in a monopoly like anthracite," and to express the principle that "the anthracite industry should pay for capital what it has to pay and no more."

"The law creating your commission provides for full investigation and report into the causes which induce strikes," the miners statement said. "We know from bitter experience that the main cause is the ever accelerating claims of the holders of anthracite securities. For every increase in national demand for coal for every increase in technology and productivity, the investor demands the full increment, keeping prices at a maximum which the traffic can bear, and wages at the minimum upon which the miners can be made to exist. There is no solution of the economic problem of anthracite until this intolerable grip is relaxed, until the public service function of the industry is frankly recognized, and until the claims of investors are confined to reasonable limits the standard of living of the miners permitted to grow with the productive expansion of the country and the price to consumers adjusted to these two factors."

As to the coal commission's fact finding operations, the miners' statement said that the industry's own present cost systems were largely devised to allow the increased takings of returns, profits or royalties by owners, and the questionnaires of the commission developed from existing cost systems "give no guarantee of securing the desired facts."

"Certain of the items are bound to be so seriously distorted that final costs as well as profits cannot be depended upon," the miners said. "Investment figures will be wholly inadequate unless a serious attempt is made to secure actual installation cost without revaluations, as well as net sacrifice of investors to date."

"Actual" Railroad Investments.
"Actual" Investments of railroads of country placed at $21,000,000,000 by Railway Age instead of $18,000,000,000 claimed by critics.

AN UNEXPECTED BUT SLIGHT DECREASE IN MAY OUTPUT OF INCOG

Special to The Weekly Courier
NEW YORK, June 13.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will review the steel and iron trade tomorrow as follows:
Production of six-inch ingots showed a slight decrease in May, which was unexpected, particularly as production of pig iron increased. There are ample supplies of coke, pig iron, scrap and semifinished steel, on the one hand, and of shipping instructions for finished steel products on the other hand. When there is any pinch it is for the ability of finishing mills to operate, some finishing departments being short of labor. The shortage is conspicuous in the case of tonnage iron at sheet and tin mills and in the case of cutting and threading departments at pipe mills.

Production of steel ingots in the first five months of this year totals about 13,500,000 tons, which is a trifle above than output in the entire calendar year 1921 and is by several per cent the largest output for any five consecutive months in the history of the steel industry.

The output is much larger than was expected by either sellers or buyers when the engagements were made that are now being carried out, but deliveries are well taken on all hands. It is noteworthy that there are no cancellations or postponements of any consequence. The trade has already shown remarkable absorptive power and the inference is that the great bulk of the steel being received is piling promptly into actual consumption.
Steel prices are steady and strong. There are rumors of price cutting, but experience of the past indicate that the appearance of such rumors is merely a psychological phenomenon. The rumors starting with those who got their facts from theory instead of their (theory) from facts. The present prices will be shaded some time, but the time has not come.

Prospects are that consumption of steel will continue for months at substantially the present rate, whatever the price rate is. Consumption of all country goods decreased some time ago while the automobile industry promises to have only a slight and brief recession. Steel for building operations will be required for several months on present engagements.

AMERICAN STOCK MUST BE KEPT PURE.

The sentiment of the country on the proposal to remove the restrictions on our immigration laws and, in a sense throw down the bars to whoever wishes to come to our shores, is becoming very definitely crystallized and is being given expression in terms which reflect the more serious thought that is being given to this highly important issue. In a recent address in New York Representative Albert Johnson, chairman of the House Committee on Immigration and Naturalization, made some very clear and positive statements indicating the attitude of his committee and of President Harding. "In spite of tremendous appeals from those who feel that the United States cannot develop its own common labor," said Mr. Johnson, "I can assure you that the President has not changed his views. He wants prosperity to lift on all six cylinders, but he does not want prosperity to be tearing down the road at 90 miles an hour."

A shortage of labor is not necessarily a shortage of laborers. If there is a corner in labor of certain kinds that corner cannot be broken by the sudden abandonment of the restriction law, or by the pouring in of the hordes from Europe. "It took 40 years to find a President who would sign an immigration restriction act. That President was Harding. He did it for the future of the country. Wholesome migrations of people to the United States are ended for all time. We are no longer an asylum. Everybody now advocates some form of restriction."

In commenting upon these statements the Baltimore Manufacturers Record declares that "far better would it be for this country to develop more slowly than to rush forward at all and well speed to its own destruction by flooding the land with more aliens than we can possibly absorb and assimilate. "It is humanly impossible to take an element from Southern Europe, which for a thousand years has been bred as alien in race, in thought, in morality and in a sense of liberty to everything for which America stands, and expect to Americanize these people to our good as well as to their own. It cannot be done. Man has never developed a melting pot of sufficient power to achieve this. "The value of this country to the world must be maintained by upholding the civilization which we now have; by upholding the flag of human liberty and of civilization and of high wages in order that the whole world may seek to imitate our example. The good people of the world need to remain in their own countries in order to build them up and save them from the destruction of the evil influences that are at work; and the bad people we do not want."

"Every country in Europe needs all of its good people in order to rebuild its fortunes, and every country will do its utmost to keep at home its best people. But all of them will do their best to encourage the emigration of the inefficient, the feeble, the diseased and those who are weak mentally and physically. We can no more open our doors to the incoming of these classes from all parts of the world than the individual man can welcome into his family like the immoral and the profligate and the degenerate merely for the purpose of the time being of getting a little more work out of them than he can out of the people already employed by him. The destruction of his family could never be justified by the little increase in material prosperity which he might have attained through the incoming of these degenerates."

"The preservation of American liberty, of the American Government as a great torch to light the world, the higher paths of civilization, is our supreme task, and in order to accomplish this, not only for our own safety but for the good of the world, we must bar out any large influx of foreigners. It is questionable whether at the present time we could even the very large increase of the laboring classes from England, for the English laboring people have become almost as radical in some respects as the wildest radicals in any part of this country. We do not want to add to the number of radical laboring people, for we have our hands full to control and guide those now in this country, and for this reason any large influx from the mother country, should be studied with extreme care."

America will become of greater value to the world in proportion as we successfully address ourselves to the task of making our present citizenship attain unto the ideals we so loftily proclaim. We cannot do this by opening wide our doors to receive constant additions of aliens who come here to implant the dangerous theories which have made them undesirable in the countries of their birth. American stock must be kept pure and virile or we will become a hybrid nation without power to reproduce in coming generations the virtues that have made us great.

The increase in industrial accidents continues to be part of the price of prosperity as the increase in the number of grade crossing accidents continues to be a measure of the foolishness of some persons who prosper.

The patriotic citizens in the vicinity of Mount Vernon Ore Mines can be depended upon to remind the people in this section what happened on the Fourth of July, 1776, and also cause them to remember what will take place on the Fourth of July, 1923.

The people of the state can now get down to business in real earnest, the Legislature having adjourned and the business of new law-making having come to an end.

The death of William L. Ball, veteran of the 50th Engineers, as the result of exposure in the line of duty, is a sad reminder that the signing of the Armistice did not end the World War for many gallant, fine spirited youths.

What Lewis Did In Europe

New York Herald.

Last winter the American people were sure that the coal miners had a tight grip on the people. It looked as if homes, business and transportation were pretty well at the mercy of the unions. Evidently John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, did not think the hold was as strong as it could be made. He went abroad a short time ago and on his return was secretive as to his European accomplishments. Frank Hodges, secretary of the Miners Federation of Great Britain, is not so close lipped as Mr. Lewis. He tells The New York Herald's London correspondent that as a result of Mr. Lewis' visit an agreement was reached "in principle" between the miners of America and Europe for cooperative action in case of a strike in any of the coal producing countries.

In other words, according to Mr. Hodges, whenever the miners of this country strike in order to enforce their demands the miners of Europe will not permit coal to be shipped to us as it was shipped last winter. So the strong grip of the United Mine Workers is to be made more powerful. The relief afforded by coal imports is to be shut off. After all, this is good news. "This country was inclined to lean on the imports. When they are shut off the situation will be seen at its worst. The United States will realize that it has to deal with a power that is international in its character."

And when the United States finds itself in a most desperate way it fights itself out of the corner. Mr. Lewis and his control of the coal fields will be taken in hand all the sooner now that the miners have enlisted the powerful aid of their fellows in Europe.

America is still asleep on the coal problem. Congress once in a while makes a little thunder about it and then is quiet. The fact finding commission finds facts, but facts do not burn even as well as the substitutes for coal that the people had to use last winter.

There will be action some day, for a hundred million people will not be forever subservient to a few thousand. Action will come all the quicker because of the European embargo which President Lewis has so neatly arranged.

Newspaper a Buyer's Guide

New York Commercial.

Addressing the Advertising Clubs of the World, Frank LeRoy Blanchard very properly declared the newspapers to be the buyer's guide. "From youth to old age," said Mr. Blanchard, "we are constant buyers of goods of one kind or another. How many of us know where and when to purchase them to the best advantage unless we read the advertisements in the daily newspapers? You say, perhaps, that we might obtain this information by visiting all the stores in town and comparing the quality and prices of the merchandise offered, but that is a physically impossible task, especially in a large city, even if we had nothing else to do. "Advertising, therefore, performs a service of incalculable value. It is a time, money and labor saver; it is a business messenger bringing to us information that, taken advantage of, will materially increase our happiness, our comfort and our efficiency. Such being the case, you can readily see how important it is that this information shall be truthful and, therefore, believable."

Newspaper advertising is truthful. If it were not it could not survive. It may be that occasionally overdrawn statements will creep in or that there will be downright deception, but that is so unusual that such offenses stand out as do any other criminal practices, and the newspapers themselves are quick to spot them and deny them the use of their columns. Advertising is business news. If you doubt it recall how naturally you turn to the newspaper to see what is offering at the theatres, how diligently the women folk at home read the big store announcements in search for bargains or to keep in touch with the trend of fashion.

THINGS.

I could sell you the house and could sell you the chairs. I could sell you the pictures which hang on the walls. I could sell you the curtains and sell you the stairs. But you wouldn't catch their real beauty at all. You wouldn't see what I see in that chair. The lost little girl who had once nestled there. You wouldn't know as you looked at that scene. Of the sheep in the meadow, hung over the grate. With the hills in the distance, the grass growing green. That it had a story that it could relate. You'd never see the small fingerprints. Of the baby who loved every lamb that is there. You'd never think, as you climbed up the stairs. Of the feet that had raced where you were. You'd never know that this small room was theirs. And it is theirs their table, and this was their bed. These are things which you look at. Just things which are freighted with beauty to me. (Copyright 1923, by Edgar A. Guest.)

Now We Know Why People Have Burning Feet

All In The Joints Says Maine Doctor

"What fools are mortals be." All these years we have been trying to help thousands of footsore people by bandaging and powdering the skin when all the time the real trouble is in the bones, ligaments and cartilage. Or, to be able to walk in the joints. There are 26 bones in the foot covered with cartilage and connected with ligaments and they require a tremendous amount of work to do. The slightest strain on one little ligament from being "on the feet" too much, inflames the whole foot, causing soreness and burning, itching and general misery. "All this can be quickly proved," says a prominent Maine doctor whose name is known the world over. "Just try a remedy that is compounded for joint troubles only—such as Joint-Balm, which every druggist carries, and see how quickly your sore, tired, inflamed and tortured feet will get well and strong and sturdy again. Forget your powdering and soaking and other makeshifts for just a few days and get rid of all foot misery by using Joint-Balm. It is a stupor-producing preparation that you rub on with your fingers for about a minute and it makes right in through skin and flesh away down to the joints—the real seat of all troubles. And remember when Joint-Balm goes in all foot agony gets out—A tube for 40 cents. Connellsville Drug Co., and every drug store. Advertisement."

If your battery is ailing but still curable, we will put it in tip-top shape. This goes for every make of battery.

Underground With the Reds

An Exposure of a Systematic Attempt to Overthrow the American Constitution

Through a special arrangement with the New York Commercial The Courier, beginning Saturday, June 16, will publish a series of 10 copyrighted articles exposing the ramifications of the Bolshevik plot against the peace and security of America.

The disclosure, made by Fred R. Marvin, a publicist who for many years has followed the efforts of foreign malcontents and enemies of society to foment trouble in this country, deal with an impudent conspiracy against the public welfare that has spread with startling rapidity.

They uncover the machinery throughout the country built up for exerting an invisible power for destruction.

They show to what astonishing lengths alien enemies of America have been able to push their propaganda and their underground organization without arousing Americans to the need of being on their guard.

They tell of the adroitly disguised methods by which these enemies of the public peace are seeking to seduce labor, the church, the public school, the higher schools and political organizations to further their attacks on American society.

They uncover, in short, a great scheme that has been developed with subtle diligence for the working of violence, treacheries and malicious disturbance, the building up of which has hitherto nourished almost unheeded.

If you want to know what Communism is, what it wants here, what it is already getting here, and what it will do to you, your wife and children and our country, you will find answer in these articles which will appear exclusively in The Courier during the next few weeks.

At the Theatres

The Paramount

"THE GENTLEMAN FROM AMERICA"—Provides splendid entertainment today and tomorrow at this theatre. "Hoot" Gibson appears in the leading role.

The inadaptability of a typical American soldier to foreign ways of doing things, and the nonconformity of European inhabitants to his idea of doing things, is the idea around which are built humorous situations. Gibson was in the service himself, and perhaps this should do much to make his portrayal of the doughboy true to life. Other elements making for sincerity in the production are the facts that Edward Sedgwick, who directed, was in the A. E. F., while Raymond L. Schrock, scenario editor at Universal City, who wrote the story, also knows his subject intimately.

Louise Lorraine will be seen opposite the popular star, while Carmen Phillips, Tom O'Brien, Frank Leigh, Burton Lane, Carl Silvera and others have the supporting roles.

Spain is the locale of the story, and the Castilian country furnishes opportunity for thrilling action.

The Soisson

"THE THIRD FIRE ALARM"—The feature picture today and tomorrow at this theatre, pays a stunning tribute to firemen in every city throughout the land. The picture, while his being shown under the auspices of the Connellsville Fire Department, depicts a story of rare entertainment value replete with thrills and no little romance and good comedy.

"The Third Alarm" is not propaganda for the firemen. Keep this point in mind. It is a powerfully dramatic story about a fireman and his little family, of his struggles for happiness, of his failure under the weight of increasing years, of his dismissal from the department and of his comeback in a conflagration so staggeringly big in its scope as to put other scenes to shame.

Then, too, there is a delightful note of romance. The increasing loyalty of Fireman McDowell's wife, her bravery in the face of her husband's discharge, all make for drama of poignant appeal. There are people in the cast also and their experience in lore heightens the romantic interest of the story.

"The Third Alarm" unfolds a story that is right down to the level of the average American citizen and the members of his family. Its producer, Mr. Emory Johnson, has told the whole truth about the fireman just as he told the truth about the policeman in his epic photoplay "In the Name of the Law."

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, "Mighty Lake A Rose," will be shown.

The Orpheum

"LITTLE LORD FAUNTLEROY," showing today and tomorrow at this theatre, presents Mary Pickford, the idol of the screen, in one of the most remarkable photoplays in which she has ever appeared. Little Mary has played a dual role before, but this is the first time she has ever appeared as a boy throughout an entire photoplay. Without a doubt it is the most appealing story ever screened. It is rich in color and human interest. We see Mary depicting a Fauntleroy who is all boy despite his "outfit" of spotless collars and handsome velvet suits. For a dressed-up boy, he certainly does get powerfully mugged up at times, much to the amusement of his stern old grandfather and to the chagrin of his idolizing mother. The work Miss Pickford does in the dual role is said to be by far the best of her career. Her sympathetic interpretation of the mother part is a startling contrast against her portrayal of the belligerent, mischievous and exuberant boy. It hardly seems possible, according to members of the theatre staff who have viewed the film, that these two widely different characterizations could be assumed by one and the same person. In addition to the remarkable photography, some excellent settings do

New Paris Ideas for Early Summer

Dresses Simple in Outline and Very Complicated in Detail.

Very lovely are the early summer models now being shown by the leading Paris dressmakers, writes a Paris fashion authority in the Boston Globe. Most of these dresses are simple in outline and very complicated in detail; this is the note of the season.

Colored organdy muslin is going to be exceedingly prominent this summer and in many cases we shall find valuable lace used to match the unexpected colors of the muslin.

Green, in all shades, is one of the most popular colors of the year. I have lately seen grass-green velvet dinner dresses hemmed with subtle and embroidered in silver or pale gold. We are entering on an era of brilliant colors and in this connection we shall find green, bright blue and a curious shade of puce-pink much used.

Dress experts are insisting that black dresses have "gone out." It is certainly true that we see very few all black costumes this spring, but on the other hand I find that the best dressmakers in the rue de la Paix are making black a foundation for elaborate and costly creations. This is especially true of black lace. There is a certain mark of this black chintilly which is freely used for dinner dresses, blouses or tete de negre blouses.

It is certain that flower trimmed hats of an elaborate order will be very much worn this summer. Just at the immediate moment we are clinging to our smart little cloche shapes trimmed with a length of ribbon, or merely with a handsome tassel or plaque, but the Paris milliners have decided to bring back elaborately trimmed hats and I am afraid we shall have to accept them. This does seem rather a pity.

The smart little cloche has proved universally becoming, especially when accompanied by a handsome floating veil and it is certain that wide brim hats heavily trimmed with flowers or feathers are becoming only to youthful women and to old girls in the season we shall find lechon fashions immensely popular. This picturesque hat is exactly the right thing to wear with flounced dresses—muslin, tulle or lace.

Millinery Vies With

Art in Colorings

As regards shapes the small mushroom style is enjoying first place. The poke has won honors for second place while the shepherdess style is being revived and old ad hats are very smart.

Among the trimmings, flowers are playing a very important role this season. They are so beautiful and give with nature in their exquisite colorings. In some instances flowers are

George Washington paid about $16.00 for his engagement ring.

Another expense item left by Washington states that with 370 head of cattle on his plantation yet he had to buy the Spread for his bread. That was before the day of

Nucoa

The Energy Spread for Bread

Nucoa is so delicate and fine in flavor, Washington would probably have preferred it as many plantation owners do today—would have bought it for his own use and sold the Spread that could have been made on his own place by good management.

These items are interesting to the June Bride for two reasons: First, the most glittering engagement ring has no bearing on happiness.

Second, that she must let no wastefulness creep into the management of her household.

If she would have Quality and Economy, let her use Nucoa, the Spread now used in thousands of big and little homes.

Nucoa costs just half as much as the kind of Spread Washington had to buy, and gives the Bride a chance to save toward this or that mahogany nest egg she has her heart set on.

N. B. The wise Bride will take her new cook book and wherever a recipe calls for an enriching medium (as for cake) she will write Nucoa.

used in bandeau effect. For instance, there is the trim collar with bandeau of moss rosebuds. As a rule, flowers are banded high on the back of the hats. In fact, practically all the trims this season are worn directly at the back or side back. Cascades of ribbon are being used a great deal, so are quantities of lace not only as drapes but in small eye veils.

Gives Color Touch
White dotted swiss for adults as well as children is among the good sellers this season. Ribbon sashes, corsages, ensembles or bouquets of ribbon that can be pinned on by the holder's eyes, make the most effective trimmings for such dresses. The ribbon gives the color touch without which no dress is complete and plays up the shewiness and weaves of the dotted swiss.

Appendix a Good Alibi.
"I bought the alcohol to pickle my appendix," pleaded Henry Rainow in court at Auburn, Me., for carrying intoxicating liquor. It took a jury only five minutes to find him "not guilty."

Green Crepe Romaine With Egyptian Trim

A charming effect is created in a green crepe Romaine with winsome Egyptian trim, carried out in a ribbon and bead panel.

NO RAGS FOR HOOKED RUGS

Modern Housewife Has Not Facilities for Making These Once Popular Floor Coverings.

The oldtime American floor covering, the hooked and braided rug, are greatly in demand as the vogue for colonial furnishings advances. The braided rug now on the market are made in fact, colors. Present day closets and modern methods of living do not admit of the modern housewife making rugs. She has no rugs.

Costly garments are sold, given away or remade—never stored away in this day of hurry. The disposition of this surplus keeps the closet shelves bare. Braided rugs must be bought, although the task of braiding and sewing is not a difficult one.

Genuine hooked rugs of authentic colonial origin are getting scarcer and scarcer, and though many dealers systematically ransom the carpets of New England, the supply seems to come exclusively from those people who have been induced only by the high prices offered to part with their family treasures. There is a steady demand for these rugs and those people who handle them for the trade find that they sell readily, and that the best specimens are snapped up in a hurry.—Kansas City Star

DESULPHURIZATION OF COKE PROBLEM NOT YET SOLVED

Although Progress Has Been Made in Experiments by Mines Bureau.

TESTS TO BE CONTINUED

Iron has an unfortunate way of taking up sulphur, and when it has acquired it the two are not easily separated. Bituminous matter always contains more or less sulphur. Unfortunately most of our American coals have more than we would desire in view of the fact that we have to use them for the manufacture of good commercial iron, says Coul Age. The coals that do not have an excess of sulphur rapidly are becoming exhausted, and we are beginning to realize that it is impossible to wash combined sulphur out of many coals because it has not segregated itself in sufficiently large masses and in some cases is not segregated at all, being part of the resin and bitumen of the coal.

As some coals that badly need desulphurization cannot be deprived of their sulphur the question naturally has been raised, Can't sulphur be taken from the coke? The coking process having modified the sulphur constituents under reducing conditions, are being absent perhaps coke by being heated in the presence of air may have some, at least, of the rest of the sulphur removed. Thus we would duplicate the reasoning of sewage purification, which utilizes the combined efforts of anaerobic and aerobic bacteria.

Unfortunately, as Arthur R. Powell shows in the article published in Coal Age last week, little hope exists that oxidation will make a sufficient change in the sulphur content to justify this processing. The sulphide of iron turns to iron and free sulphur, but that freedom is only relative. The sulphur is freed from the iron but held physically by the coke and consequently may recombine with the iron in the reducing zone near the mouth of the furnace to form iron sulphide. In the iron-sponge zone the temperature once more liberates the sulphur, which is absorbed either by the iron or the line of the charge. Whether iron sulphide or free sulphur enters the furnace makes no difference—the result is the same. The sulphates also are quite likely to be reduced, and hence sulphur, when it is in the form of a sulphate, may be regarded as almost as undesirable as when it appears as a sulphide.

The only form of sulphur that seems free of objection in the furnace is the sulphur in solid solution in the carbon. Even in this form its relative harmlessness does not appear proved. This sulphur in one of the coals described by Mr. Powell runs 1.99 per cent, the other sulphur totaling only 1.30 per cent. As in three runs the aggregates of these other sulphures was reduced to 0.37, 0.72 and 0.61, or from 33 to 45 per cent, it would still seem that an improvement worth while has been effected. With the other kind of coke the reduction in the sulphur, excluding solid-solution sulphur, was from 0.47 to 0.13 and 0.11, the reduction varying from 10 to 36 per cent, which is a less significant quantity.

The Bureau of Mines is to be commended for its inquiries into the desulphurization of coke. They are being extended so as to embrace the effect of steam on that fuel product. It is to be hoped that in view of the importance of the subject, investigation will go on regardless of results, especially if they are not more discouraging than those in Mr. Powell's article.

Used by Buffalo Physician for Many Years With Great Success.

Since the beginning of the year, dozens of the doctor's cases have been welling a vegetable preparation called Necta, a very successful remedy for reducing high blood pressure to normal.

People who have no appetite, are moody and nervous, who have headaches, hot flashes and dizzy spells probably have high blood pressure and don't realize it.

Necta is not a cure-all but it does reduce high blood pressure for that purpose is used by many women at the changing time of life.

Father bought a pair of hip boots, in anticipation of the coming fishing season. The boots greatly interested Ann, his three-year-old daughter, so one day when mother and father were preparing for a journey downtown, and mother was putting on her Russian boots, Ann turned to father and said:

"Daddy, why don't you wear your boots, too?"

Exasperation.
One day while walking home I was much annoyed to find a dog following me. I turned two or three times and tried to frighten it away. When feeling that it was not coming back, suddenly I heard soft footfalls.

I turned and said: "Will you go home?"

I imagine my embarrassment to find an unknown man walking behind me.—Exchange.

Of the 137,700,000 acres included within the boundaries of the national forests, 20 per cent is accurately mapped and 50 per cent has been covered by rough reconnaissance, says the annual report of the forest service, United States Department of Agriculture. On about 24 per cent no mapping work has been done.

Pre-Memorial Day Rate of Production is Restored; Further Gain in Sight

Better Running Time With More Ovens in Blast by Merchants.

NEW CAR SUPPLY RECORD

Average Last Week Over 100 Per Cent.
P. R. R. Lending with 105; Third Quarter Contracting Brings Feeling of Relief After Maneuvering.

From The Weekly Courier.

Production of coke is back to the pre-Memorial Day weekly rate and is giving indications of a further increase to a total equal to if not in excess of that recorded in April, before the necessity arose to apply restrictive measures by the merchant producers.

The decline incidental to the observance of Memorial Day was only 2,300 tons, which as holiday weeks usual rate, was exceptionally small. This was fully regained last week, and apparently without special effort. The running time of the region more nearly approached full six days, comparatively few plants observing two lay-off days and a smaller number taking one day. The P. R. R. Coke Company kept to the full three-day schedule, as it has been doing without exception for a long time. Only two independent furnace coke plants made less than six days. All of the merchant plants except seven run every day, six limiting their activity to four and one to three days. The average for the week was, therefore, better than during the preceding week. Further, the number of active ovens was advanced by 206, two-thirds of which were at merchant plants.

The week has about a change in the relative positions of the furnace and merchant producers. Instead of continuing their almost uniform gains from week to week the furnace plants dropped behind 1,400 tons. Facing short in their course the merchants turned their loss of 2,340 tons of the previous week into a gain of 3,710, bringing the total production up to 295,540 tons.

Coke supply is doing even better than in earlier weeks. In fact, it is establishing a record which takes the memory of the oldest operators to recall having been equalled for any except very brief periods. During the past week the average has been in excess of 100 per cent for the entire region. The Pennsylvania railroad load with 107 per cent for coke cars and 108 per cent for coal cars. The Monongahela averaged a nominal 120 per cent for both coke and coal car distribution. Thus far the present week is surpassing last. On Monday the Pennsylvania distributed 114 per cent coke and 116 per cent coal cars; Tuesday, 115 per cent coke and 117 per cent coal; Wednesday, 121 per cent coke and 123 per cent coal.

With third quarter contracting well under way, and the price level fairly well established on a basis which gives recognition to the better grades of coke, a certain feeling of relief is being experienced which did not prevail pending the maneuvering for position, in which both producer and consumer participated. The views of some operators as to value of coke on the present basis of production costs have not, in the main, prevailed but there has been a closer approach than at times appeared would result. Relative to the prices of articles in the production of which coke is an important factor the price of coke is low, but in view of the market position, which has favored buyers rather than sellers, the range is regarded as reasonably fair, especially in view of the prospects that the fourth quarter will develop some pronounced advantages for the producers.

There is a better sentiment in the coal trade but it has not assumed the form of better prices or greatly increased demand. A considerable tonnage is moving but it is not distributed among as many producers as formerly. The smaller operations are virtually out of the market, some from choice, but most from necessity.

The estimated production of coke during the week ended Saturday, June 9, was 295,540 tons, divided between the two districts as follows: Connellsville, 167,640, a decrease of 2,920 tons; Lower Connellsville, 127,900, an increase of 5,170 tons, or a net increase of 2,310 tons as compared with a decrease of 2,310 tons during the preceding week.

By intercepts the production was: Furnace, 12,950, a loss of 2,400 tons; merchant, 113,590, a gain of 3,710 tons, as compared with a merchant loss of 3,340 tons during the week ended June 2.

Heavier Trucks Increase Capacity P. R. R. Coal Cars

The coal carrying capacity of the Pennsylvania Railroad System, has, in the last few months, been increased by what is equivalent to the addition of 3,800 new coal cars to the service. Last October orders were placed with the company's Altoona shops to substitute 70-ton trucks for 60-ton trucks under 10,138 cars then operating in the coal service. To date there have been 6,173 cars turned out of the shops with this work completed, their carrying capacity being increased 31 per cent each, by the substitution of the heavier trucks. The additional capacity thus obtained is naturally of greater advantage from an operating standpoint than if it had been secured by placing additional cars in service, as there is no corresponding increase in the number of car units to be handled in transit.

When these cars were built, 70-ton capacity trucks were placed on 50-ton trucks and the load restricted to 50 tons, because of insufficient strength of certain bridges on branch freight lines to carry the heavier loads. The correction of these conditions now makes possible the operation of the heavy equipment, loaded to full capacity.

It is expected that work will be completed on all the cars by fall. When this is accomplished, the coal carrying capacity of the system will have been increased by 190,515 tons, which is equivalent to placing 3,810 new cars in the service.

Airplane Used to Carry Machinery Parts to Coal Mine

The Blanchard Coal Company, operating mines at Spruce, Pa., and near Zanesville, O., has inaugurated an airplane service between the Pittsburgh office and the mine for the purpose of preventing shutdowns through delays in securing machinery parts in case of breakdowns.

Two flights have been made since June 1 when the service was established. By July 16 it is planned to make two flights weekly to Spruce and one to Zanesville. By September 1 a schedule of daily trips to Spruce will be arranged, as the mine is dependent on capacity production.

The Blanchard Company has ordered a plane, which will be built especially for their flights. At present the company is using a leased plane. The new plane will carry two passengers and 200 pounds of freight.

In case of a breakdown at the mine a part can be replaced in a few hours as most of the parts weigh less than 200 pounds. Formerly, on account of the mine location, a breakdown meant the stopping of work for three or more days while the part was being sent by express. The flight to Spruce is made in one hour and a half.

The cost of the flight to Spruce and back with two passengers is just a little less than the railroad fare, it has been estimated.

Company Organized To Buy M. & W. Rwy

Announcement has been made at Morgantown of the incorporation of the Scotia Run Railway Company, with a capitalization of $1,000,000. The company intends to purchase the Morgantown & Wheeling Railroad Company when it is placed on sale by trustees of the Monongahela County Circuit Court July 6 to satisfy outstanding indebtedness, approximately $1,500,000, it was announced.

The incorporators are H. C. Nutt, Pittsburg, president of the Monongahela Railroad Company; Albert Ward, of Pittsburg, counsel for that company; and Judge Frank Cox, George C. Butler and Stanley H. Cox of Morgantown, local counsel for the company.

The road which serves the Scotia Run coal field, operates approximately 30 miles of road and will eventually be extended to Wheeling, it is said. The Morgantown & Wheeling has been discovered as the most profitable short line railroad in the country.

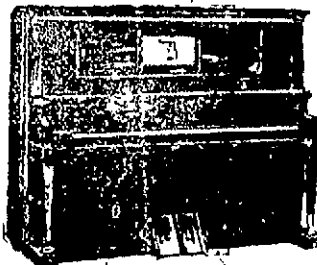

A group headed by J. V. Thompson, recently acquired the greater part of the stock of the Morgantown & Wheeling company and attempted to prevent its sale, but after these stockholders had failed to raise a sufficient sum to guarantee the payment of the outstanding indebtedness, the sale was ordered by the court.

HOW MANY WORK FOR YOU?

Most men do not begin to feel satisfied with themselves until they have enough people working for them to make them a living. For, as you know, the more people you have working for you, the more money you make, if, of course, the people are the right people, and you have work for them to do.

In a like manner of speaking, have you ever considered equipment, which saves time and gives convenience, as so many people working for you? A bathtub, a shower, a lavatory, a closet, a kitchen sink, a hot water heater, a heating plant—these, all these, are as so many good, honest, loyal people working for you. They work twenty-four hours a day to make you more money.

They save you time and energy, and whatever saves time or energy earns money. For, after all, money is made out of time and energy. It is time lost and energy wasted that cause many men to be poor.

A well-plumbed and well-heated home, office, and factory pile up savings which pile up dollars. Begin to save your steps, your minutes, and your strength and you will begin to be satisfied.

Fair Play for Industry Is Vital Need, Coal Operators Told at Notable Gathering

George Wyhol president of the Fayette-Greene Coal Producers Association, acted as chairman and introduced Daniel W. McDonald as the toastmaster of the evening.

The speakers on the program in the order of their appearance were T. W. Gault, H. D. Cleveland, W. G. Curran, J. D. Battle, Colonel Nutt, Harry Gandy, J. C. Brydon and James R. Gray.

Mr. Gray made the response on behalf of the local men present, expressing appreciation for a very enjoyable meeting and touching upon the need not for new legislation, but for the repeal of much legislation now on the statute books of state and nation.

An interesting little sidelight was the statement by the toastmaster that his law partner Mr. Gray, presided at the last similar gathering held in Fayette county, that occasion being in 1907 when I. W. Sman was host to the operators.

During the serving of the elaborate dinner, a delightful musical program was rendered the artists being Miss Muriel Moran violinist, Mrs. William H. Hogsett, soprano, Mrs. Earl Seoval Aretford, pianist, Gomer Jones, baritone, and Miss Olive Lanson, pianist.

The meeting was by far the greatest of the kind ever held in the district. Two hundred fifty prominent operators from every section of Western Pennsylvania, northern West Virginia and other states were present.

During the afternoon the regular monthly meeting of the Monongahela Association, with headquarters at Morgantown, was held at the Summit. This followed a luncheon served at the hotel. Mr. Brydon, Mr. Gandy and Mr. Battle appeared before the meeting.

Arrangements for the evening meeting were in charge of a committee headed by G. Earl Aretford, chairman, and the secretary, J. Fred Sheen. The members of the committee are, in addition, T. J. McClellan, Charles B. Lenhart, G. S. Harsh,

The coal industry and the transportation system were characterized by Mr. Curran as the gold dust twins. Forty per cent of the railroad tonnage he said, is coal and coke, on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad the percentage is 60. Twenty-eight per cent of the coal is used by the railroads he added.

The railroads are endeavoring to keep abreast of the times, Mr. Curran said. They should, he declared, spend $500,000,000 a year in improvements to do this. They are making a mighty effort to meet the demands made upon them and will succeed, he prophesied, if not untimely hampered.

Talking of Baltimore & Ohio equipment, Mr. Curran said the company now owns 60,000 cars an increase of 100 per cent since 1910.

Throughout the discussions was an emphasis upon the need for legislation and investigation in all lines of industry, particularly the coal industry and the railroads.

BETTER ROADS

MEASURING HUMAN PROGRESS

There Has Never Been High State of Civilization Without Dependable Transportation.

There are now 118,000 miles of paved or surfaced highways in the United States—more than there are of ever were in any other country in the world. They have all been built, too, within comparatively few years. When the system provided for in the federal highway act is completed, the improved highways will amount to 180,000 miles.

The process will keep right on, with accelerating speed, establishing new track lines across the continent and up and down, in a transportation system of ever-growing fitness and durability.

Imagine all this network of good roads swept away—the condition in which it would leave the country and the deterioration that would follow.

Good roads are civilization. There has never been a high state of civilization without dependable transportation routes connecting every locality with every other, and still less will there ever be hereafter, says the Interstate Commerce Commission.

You can measure modern human progress pretty accurately by its road building.

RESULT OF TRACTIVE TESTS

Instruments Carefully and Accurately Measure Pull Required and Fuel Consumed.

Town, State and other officials and institutions have been making tests to determine comparative tractive resistance on various types of road surfacing. Special instruments are designed to accurately and accurately test pull required and fuel consumed per ton mile on these averages are as follows:

On each road... 15 ton-miles
On gravel road... 11 ton-miles
On concrete road... 10 ton-miles
At 24 cents per gallon fuel costs per ton-mile on these averages are as follows:
On each road... 1.15 cents
On gravel road... 1.15 cents
On concrete road... .77 cents

BETTER ROADS BENEFIT ALL

Farmers as Well as Wealthy Tourists and Truck Using Corporations Are Helped.

Good roads are vital to all sections of the country. Contrary to common conception, the wealthy tourists and truck using corporations form only a small fraction of those who are using better highway transportation.

Better roads will benefit two great classes, 8,000,000 of farmers who are dependent upon their automobiles, and as many more city dwelling families with incomes of less than $4,000, who with the farmers own two-thirds of all the cars sold.

Finally, as an investment, better roads will pay regular and substantial dividends which every enterprise cannot afford to lose.

Better highways mean better transportation and better communities.

Increases Value of Citizen.

Good roads are to be used principally for the same reason that good schools are maintained; namely, because they increase the intelligence and value of the citizen to society.

How to build up your Weight

TO be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality.

That's why S.S.S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S.S.S. will build them.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

NOT WORTH NEEDED EFFORT

Indianapolis Girls Refused to Make Physical Exertion Necessary to Pick Up That Dime.

A man was stopped a moment the other evening at the southwest corner of Washington and Pennsylvania streets by the press of traffic. He noticed three girls standing at the edge of the sidewalk, gazing slyly at the pavement near where they stood.

This aroused his curiosity and he stepped over near them and saw a dime at the spot on which their eyes were glued. He advanced with the remark:

"I'll pick it up for you," and asked to whom it belonged.

"Me," said one of them. "Why didn't you pick it up?" "Didn't want to," she answered. "And why didn't you pick it up?" he asked the second girl.

"Too tired," was her answer. "And you?" addressing the third. "Too lazy," was the response.

"What are your names?" he asked, and was answered, "Jane, Helen and Ruth."

"Well, mine's Bill. Good-night," and he sauntered on.—Indianapolis News.

Masked Goats.

At the Bowditch Institute, Aberdeen, Scotland, a number of goats were to be seen wearing what appeared to be gas masks. The masks were fitted to the horns by elastic bands, and provided with an inlet valve which admitted air, and a second valve through which the out-breathed air passed into a rubber bag.

The expired air was then analyzed. The amount of heat produced by the animals giving an indication of the quantity of food being used up. The masked goats were being used in a series of experiments now being carried on at the institution in order to throw light on the question of animal nutrition, and the most economical method of stock-feeding.

To Study Habits of Whales.

The government of the Falkland Islands has purchased the famous ship the Discovery, which it plans to use chiefly for research work in the south Atlantic. The ship was used by Captain Scott for the British expedition to the south polar regions from 1901 to 1904.

The chief task for which the Falkland Islands government wants the Discovery is to study the habits of the whale, to ascertain the geographical limits of the stock, trace their migrations and to form some idea of their numbers and the rate of reproduction. The expedition also will do research work in oceanography, meteorology and magnetism.

Servants Cheap in Osaka.

The wages of servant girls in Osaka, Japan, have gone up 1800 per cent in thirty years. The pay of men servants, printers, carpenters and coolies has gone up, in the same period of time, between 820 and 1800 per cent. In 1891 servant girls got an average of 83 sen, or about 42 cents a month. Today they are paid $7.50.

Local Independent Baseball Team Will Play California Independents Tomorrow

Wells Humphries, former Pa. & W. Va. League Player, Is Manager.

OTHER SPORTING QUIPS

The Connellsville Independent baseball team, stronger than ever, will play the California Independents, managed by Wells Humphries, here tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The management will make a special effort to get the game under way on time.

The Cokers, with Billy Long of Brownsville and Good, of Collier at second and third respectively, have played the infield with considerable strength. Otherwise no change in the team has been announced.

The California Independents have been winning so regularly this season that the game in Connellsville will be an acid test. The Cokers, with their steady ball playing and continuous victories, having lost only one game, are considered one of the best semi-pro nine in this region and scores of letters asking for games are received every week.

California was kind of the opportunity to meet a worthy opponent and further, Manager Humphries, who frequently opposed Connellsville teams in the Pennsylvania & West Virginia League days, rather yearned for another crack at a local team. He will be recalled by many former fans and will be greeted by them when he steps on the field.

Of Interest to Fans.

Pittsburgh lost a good opportunity for gaining on the New York Giants yesterday when the champions again lost in Redland, Cincinnati winning handily. The Pirates fell before the lowly Phils, 2-1, and New York succeeded, 6-5.

Meadows twirled for the Blues and let down his former mates with six blows. Moken, once a Pirate, grabbed off a sweat that looked like a game-winning home run by Bob Russell in the ninth. The player dashed to the farthest section of centerfield to make a one-handed catch of the fly ball that saved the game for Jimmy Wang.

Philadelphia Athletics are now only two games behind the league leading New York Yankees.

The golf course at the country club was well patronized yesterday afternoon.

Governor Fletcher yesterday signed the bill creating a state athletic commission to regulate boxing and wrestling. The new law permits 10-round bouts to a decision to be made by two judges and a referee if the judges disagree.

Harry Greb and Len Rowlands will box 10 rounds at Craf's Five Acres in Uniontown tonight. The

The Covenanters and Lutherans of the Church League play tonight at 6 o'clock at Fayette Field.

Horseshoe teams of the various churches entered in the Church Horseshoe League are practicing daily, getting the swing of the iron boys down to perfection.

Each evening some of the tappers are working until darkness makes it longer impossible to tell the scores. The players practice on the Presbyterian and Methodist Episcopal grounds.

Born on Staten Island, Mabel couldn't help having an inherited and acquired taste for home-grown music. Now the Prince is back, richer than ever, sitting in the front row watching Mabel. Will Mabel's feelings warm up, and Prince play a lone, solo, solo?

COLOR IS IMPORTANT FACTOR

Interesting Experiments Have Shown That Light Paint Is Best for Ship's Bottoms.

Some interesting results have been obtained by J. Paul Visecher in his study of the fouling of ships' bottoms. These results indicate that the color of the paint used is an important factor in determining the amount of fouling. Plates painted with different colors were exposed in sea water at the Beaufort laboratory and the development of the growths was observed over a period of several months. The plates were identical except for the color used, and since all factors influencing them were the same, it may be concluded that any difference in the amount or the nature of fouling was dependent on color. These colors include white, black, yellow, red, green and blue.

The results show clearly that there was much more fouling on the dark plates than on those with lighter colors. The contrast between the white and black plates was especially marked. Barnacles, which constitute a large percentage of the total amount of fouling were especially affected by color. They were found only on the blue and black plates and were more abundant on the black. Hydroids were also practically confined to the dark plates.

The results are apparently explained by the fact that at the time of attachment of the larvae to these forms the organisms are negatively phototropic, that is, they tend to go away from the source of light. This experiment is in accord with observations made on the growth on ships' bottoms where the densest growths are found in regions least exposed to light. The (note) and tentative conclusions are at present based on a limited amount of evidence, and it is expected that the

PLACED HIS BET AND LOST

Walter Took a Chance, but Evidently It Did Not Happen to Be His Lucky Day.

An old darkey waiter had served a modest but quite perfect lunch to two elderly and thrifty looking guests. He had inquired how each dish suited their taste whether it had been seasoned properly if it was hot enough or sufficiently chilled. The check was presented at the close of the meal. It was $3.40. One of the guests glanced over it and placed a $5 bill on the tray. The waiter disappeared with a smile, and returned with the change—a $1 bill and 50-cent piece and a dime. He put the tray at the guests' elbow and waited patiently. He watched the dollar bill slowly withdrawn and then after a painful pause the 50-cent piece. The tray with its lonely dime was shoved toward him. He picked it up, looked at it sadly and gave a long sigh. "Boss," he said, "I gambled and I lost."—Judge

Natural Question.
Two recent arrivals in a small country town started a drugstore. They had some dynamite for lighting a well in their new residence.

A nervous looking assistant came forward.
In reply to the question "Do you keep dynamite?" he answered "Is it for the dog?"

HOSPITALS MADE ACCESSIBLE

Automobile and Improved Roads Have Made It Possible for Farmer to Enjoy Advantages.

The development of the automobile and the construction of hard roads have made it possible in many sections to equip and erect modern hospitals, even in the smallest towns and cities, and to make these hospitals accessible to patients through the use of motor ambulances for distances as far as 50 and 140 miles. The old emergency operation was performed on the rough pine table, now it may be done, in many instances, under the most modern of hospital advantages.

Monaco Gambling Metropolis.
Monaco on the French Mediterranean coast is the smallest independent state in Europe, having an area of only eight square miles, but containing a population of 23,000. The principality once considerably larger than at present belonged to the Grimaldi family but in 1814 Prince Charles III ceded the greater part of it to France. Monaco's hereditary sovereign is a prince who is assigned in governing by a council of state. The principal city is Monte Carlo, famous for its casino, the two others being Monaco and Condamine.

Wine Damages From Host.
Automobile owners who find friends for rides are responsible for their safety according to a verdict at Baltimore. Mrs. A. Shuman was awarded $8,000 damages from her friend Mike Kanawick. Mrs. Shuman's husband was killed while riding with Kanawick.

World's Biggest Gem

What is held to be the largest uncut precious stone in the world in a flaw less black opal discovered in this country and now said to be in the office of a government official in Washington. The gem contains approximately 21 cubic inches, weighs 2,372.32 carats and is valued by the owners at $250,000. The colors are translucent blues and greens with a little red. The famous Viennese opal which was without equal until the American specimen was found weighs 1,033,927 carats but has a number of flaws.

Pay for Service Rendered.

If the public surmounts a road and saves the owner of the rolling stock a large percentage of the cost of operating his car, the owner should be required to pay back a fair share of the savings. This should not be called a tax; it would be a charge for service rendered.

modest speech of acceptance for my aunt, Baroness Pompadour, as I take over her interests in outfitting the Seraphine."

"I should say it is very well. Putting back to the city at once, with your blacks, and appearing at the affair, you are shielded from all conversation with what the infamous Sazarac may do."

"Ah, but," exclaimed de Almonaster, "There is to be a ball at the Theatre d'Orleans. The youth and chivalry of the city are to dance there, and then away to the Seraphine her self to revel and drink to the plot upon her decks."

"At what hour, Monsieur? I admit this is disconcerting."

"At twelve o'clock. The ship will be ablaze with lanterns and hung with ribbons! Non de Dieu! It is too late to change the affair! I could like my fingers that I did not think of the banquet. Commander Bessiere will preside. De Marigny, Barre, Pierre des Trehan, young De la Verne—the officers of the garrison and the municipality—the affair will be an up-foar until sunrise!"

"Midnight," commented the other, "Well, then—by Bonaparte, himself—Monsieur Sazarac shall attend. He will stand at the banquet table in the emperor's suite and toast the absent guests. He will be the ghost out of the dark, and feeding on to the darkness that awaits him. He will be brief in his role, this Sazarac—grasping at a sliver of moonlight; and for his answer—silence."

CHAPTER VIII

The revelers of the Place d'Armes. In the dusky radiance of the chain wall-lamps suspended from corner to corner, the vagrant candle seller held his handful of green wax myrtle tapers high, peering up at the iron gallery for the possible customer.

"Belle chandeliers! Petite belle chandeliers—Madame!"

The magnate lady ignored him with disdain, and the shabby old figure shambled on with its cry.

"Belle chandeliers! M'au! Madame—belle chandeliers!"

At the corner of the rue Royale and Orleans just behind the cathedral the peddler stopped and hitched his cloak higher over his basket. The rue d'Orleans was a blaze of light showing forth the low facade of the famous ballroom. Frolic carriages, dusky, bejeweled women were alighting, and across the cobble groups led horses from which gentlemen had just dismounted to amble by groups to the ballroom or to the crowded vestibule of the Quadrone hall. Laughing, jesting gallants, some of more youthful appearance glancing rather humorously up the street, for this was a frolic not countenanced openly—and yet the gentlemen of the town and the plantations would be there. Favorites and mistresses—the famed beauties of the semi-monde—and perhaps a few better recognized were lured to the Ball d'Orleans to wonder curiously how brothers, fathers and lovers might comport themselves at the revel.

The old candle seller in the shadow of the trees in the cathedral garden across the rue Royale, watched unconsciously. Behind him lay the narrow-paved Alley St. Antoine between the church and the gloomy, high-galleted buildings jutting over it. The other end opened on the Place d'Armes, and beyond that, the levee, where there was a group of lanterns forming an arch over a carpeted gateway that led to the dock of the gayly lighted Seraphine.

The candle peddler looked each way anxiously. At length, from the crowd before the ballroom vestibule—midst the flash of carriage wheels, sleek-coated animals turning among the brightly-coated gentlemen and shouting waiters, there came one brown-skinned fellow tugging to hold back a spirited steed. Unobtrusively, as by chance he was jerked on by the horse, the groom finally held up at the banquet of broad stones on which stood the little candle seller. To him the groom muttered:

"Monsieur Almonaster is here. He thought it best. They like him round about the affair. Look, but he proposes—he has given half his plantation force to the military, and the city guard who are besting out the woods for the stolen lady. He has denounced as deeply as any against the outrage—and he thought it best to come join the gallants. How goes it, Gorgio?"

"With the few of us in town—well. And, be assured, across the river the Captain Jean will have his fellows ready. Be on, now! You must not talk to me overlong. Only, Gorgio, be here, armed and watchful—and a word from your master."

"Monsieur de Almonaster is to send word by me—I am to hang about drinking with the servants at our side entrance—watching."

"Word must come in time—before the party leaves for the ship—we must know that an hour before."

"My master will be assured. The fun grows furious already—it will be drawn ere they think of supper on the Seraphine."

"Be gone! Here comes one of the police guard!"

The quarter-blood groom led on De Almonaster's horse. And again the candle seller raised his monotonous cry down the rue Royale. And from the river end of Antoine's alley waded another figure; at the deep entry to the Padre's house, midway in the tree-shaded obscurity, the old Andalusian beggar sank on the stones with a sigh—and adjusted the pair of pistols at his belt to more ease.

When Gorgio wandered this way again, the vagrant seemed asleep. These came his mutter: "Perhaps, on the rue de la Verne—by the first market stall there might await a customer. Then art too noisy at the best for the Padre's street, eh—Frere Diabler?"

"Custom is bad at least," retorted Gorgio, "but you—the police will harry you on as well."

"Not with Padre Antoine, my good friend, above at his book," growled the other. "Do as I bid—I was sent."

And on lifted the candle man, with his owls to the guttered lantern. Under the thick arches of the ancient market he bantered hoarsely about the cabbage and fowl stalls. At this hour the market was little visited and few kept open. A few lazy Indian women and mulattoes grumbled back at Gorgio's jests; an early cart or two backed in to unload for the morning's business, and it was to one of these, on which a trio of truckers smoked idly, that the old man came.

They shot down dark, inscrutable glances.

"Pierre," muttered Gorgio, "you are in charge of these?"

"In all, sixteen of us, sleeping about the stalls," came in the patois. "The police guards note nothing. But of the fellows who must cross by the river, there is delay. What was the hour?"

"It cannot be set to a moment. At midnight the ball must have taken every idler from the plaza to crowd about and gaze at the gentry. Save for the curved lights about the ship itself, all would be clear. It must be touch and board quickly."

"Two of Lohannes men are already enlisted in the crew. They report all well save that old Bessiere fusses about the ladies on the deck—the lights and wine and cutlery keep the servants all night."

"He will go to the hall later. As commander of the Napoleon expedition and the affair in honor of the Seraphine's departure on a next week's tide the young bravos will have him in the wharf."

"Monsieur de Almonaster's groom is to fetch the first word to me—I to Pierre the beggar who plans the plot on the steps of the Padre's house. He to you in the market—then you to the harbor signal under the tree—Gorgio's hand! Then the ship starts about with all speed from the other shore. At the first commotion as they sail aboard, your fellows rush openly from the market, cast off the mooring lines and join. It is overboard with any who oppose."

"The wind is capital—although making English turn we shall have to pull-haul, doubtless. But who can pursue save one of the steamboats—and by the time the uproar goes that far—Blen!—what of it?"

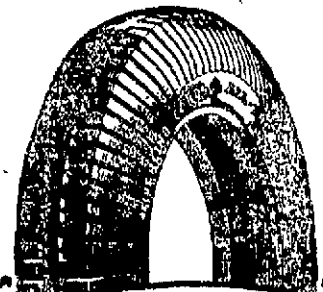

"A shot from an eighteen-pounder and the tankette will hesitate," growled Gorgio. "All is ready—waiting Monsieur de Almonaster's word for the river signal."

The swarthy-skinned marketmen laughed; their roving glances went from the idle croons at the stalls to the load of cabbage under which there protruded one rusty cutlery hill which Gorgio now frowningly pushed back. Then he was on with his dragging cry about the dark streets of the Vieux Carré.

SEIBERLING CORDS

All-Tread Type

We Don't Recommend Abusing Tires,
But We Build Tires That Stand Abuse

For example, when you graze the curb you're not apt to grind a large round piece from the side-wall of your tire—like a Seiberling Cord.

The tough tread rubber of this tire extends in one piece from head to head, giving you greatly increased protection against cuts and curbs and against tread separation.

That feature—together with the fine quality of the long-staple cords and the superior toughness of the rubber—has another advantage which you can't see but can easily prove. The continuous flexing of the tire in motion is less apt to overheat and break down the structure.

This is important—for in spite of every vigilance most tires carry less than the proper air pressure most of the time—and many motorists permit this deliberately to assure easier riding. Think that over—but don't forget the title of this advertisement.

Great Liberty Is Allowed in Dress

Fashion Permits Women to Wear What Pleases Them Best.

Never has there been a season when greater liberty is allowed in dress as serves a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Tribune. It is absolutely the moment when a woman may wear what pleases her best. Practically nothing is demanded through the spring openings, because while the dressmakers have sounded the full gamut of variation they have not launched a distinctly new note. To say what is the fashion, therefore, is impossible, because practically everything is the fashion.

One speaks of prints as the new note but they are not really new. It is their emphasis, perhaps, which is new, because there is a lust of them. Lace is not new, but there are many lace dresses. Wide skirts are no novelty, but these elaborate affairs are shown by everybody. Heretofore in a novelty last season but they again adorn many frocks. Band and brocades continue to claim a fair proportion of attention. Silk and metal embroideries are more than ever in vogue, despite the fact that through the winter season just passed they have been seen on every kind of garment.

One of Dreco's most beautiful dresses is made of lace combined with black satin. It well deserves its name "Festival de la nuit" (the night). It is all in black except the beautiful embroidery which forms the cell pattern across the front and lining the drapery in a high stonish effect, emphasized in so many of the recent models. The lace forms a long cape back in an unusually charming way.

Linen and lace are easily associated because of the fact that this maker has had so much to do with the design for wide-sleeved dresses. Lace lends itself very well to this idea. Distinctly interesting are Linen's dinner dresses in black and silver lace in which the overblown of lace is draped on a straight chemise foundation, but the lace overblow is so mounted with its thickly corded shirtings with its uneven hem and huge button-bow in brilliant contrast that it gives a dazzling note. So much for cleverness which takes the most clever idea and by a clever twist changes it into a high novelty.

Polonaise and Bustle Effects
Philippe & Gaston make rather dressy things in lace often combining beige and brown. This house also reflects the cape back on many of its models; the result being dignified dresses for matrons of conservative taste.

Prints are everywhere especially those in Cambridge designs that is to say, Hindu Chinese. Dreco's has a lovely model to which he gives the name Cambois. This is developed in an Oriental printed crepe marocain combined with navy blue crepe, a material which the French like very much. This is a charming little polonaise of feet made of the printed silk over a skirt of navy blue, the printed drapery being lifted up in the back in the form of an encircling bow.

Almost every little blue serge three piece suit has its top of some printed material. Azores has made a most attractive model by choosing her material discreetly using, more frequently than anything else green and white and navy prints in connection with blue serge.

Tenny shows some interesting cloth dresses a most successful model being one of black crepe which has a snake-like ornament encircling the body, the snake being made of a blue and gold bead standing out. This dress has a charming raking to it but if one does not like the snake, Tenny equates this ornamentation with a large, fascinating, rainbow colored swan, almost as far as a silk thread and to be had in every imaginable color. Very assembled to suit a most satisfying combination.

Jenny uses quantities of mousseline and a great deal of piece lace in her afternoon dresses and some of them have very original lines. For instance, a black lace called Artime has a straight, feminine covered with lace upon which lace is now from the belt these are about nine inches wide and have a beaded edge. Similar panels which alternate with these hang from the shoulder pointing above the belt. There are also a number of lace boleros which are quite long enough to form boleros.

Double Waistline Achieved
The dresses in spite of their long panels are very straight in effect as the underlining is tight and quite short. Such dresses have very a lot of belts that are cut wide and in two divisions cut just below the waist and one falling at the hips. In one case, it is in a square. The body is wrapped three or four times around the body, quite loosely above the waist and tighter about the hips.

This matter keeps to her tradition of fluffy evening dresses using tulle lace and mousseline do also many of the lace skirts are very full on the hips and under most of the full hip skirts are extremely short, reaching almost to the knee. The silhouette is quite pretty because the waist is rather short. There may be some sort of trimming such as bands of embroidery or of flowers, a quarter of a yard deep on the hips, which causes the fullness to stand out without its being padded in any way.

Organdy dresses are also made in this way, with two plaques causing the hips to stand out. Most skirts of this sort are split open up to the waist in front and float aside, showing a very close little under slip, which is of a plain tulle or crepe embroidered with a delicate design. This is a very successful solution of the full skirt idea and as the waist above is not too closely fitted, the impression is of an up-to-date dress rather than of a picture idea. One of the best dresses is called Pinchus and is of gold piece lace of a very high quality. The hips of this are very full, but not in any way set out. The skirt is split and the gold lace floats. There is a pink lining.

Polier is showing broad trimmed dresses. He uses extremely narrow bands in brilliant colors on crepe de chine and crepe marocain. The added little touch is in silk of brilliant colors. He is affecting the one side closing of uneven at which closes high—indeed, the Vionnet's successful and novel front closing.

Short Jacketed Suits in Lead
The short jacketed suits take precedence over other styles from a standpoint of numbers as well as variation. Particularly does the short jacket stand out among the models by so-called fashion leaders such as Chanel, Jany, Dreco, Polier, Beer and Agn.

Some of the models are so simple as to make one wonder why they are put out as models but then one must admit their charm and that probably is the answer. Worth shows a sunny little all-over embroidered jacket to be worn with simple cloth skirts. Paton

Very Popular Model of the Season. It is Constructed of Crepe de Chine Cascading Drapery Being a Strong Feature has beaded jackets with wool rep skirts.

Beer shows a beautiful green rep skirt in a short jacket in which the collar, cuffs and skirt are covered with a bead embroidery picked out in green and black. The straight little jacket has interesting tucked fullness in both the body and sleeves and there are pleated side panels in the skirt.

Lanvin affects large bows, and an impressive note for an evening costume is often given through the placing of a smashing bow in marked contrast to the dress. Lanvin has designed a lovely evening dress in white satin with a sparkling, star-like design almost a constellation, done in silver embroidery, crystal beads and furs. At the back is a huge bow in black satin.

New Australian Capital.
Canberra in New South Wales, was chosen some time ago to be the federal capital of the Commonwealth of Australia and authority for the name was granted to the Australian parliament but at present Melbourne capital of the State of Victoria, is the seat of government and to replace capital. The construction of the federal capital at Canberra is proceeding apace, and as soon as it is completed that place will become the permanent capital.

Successful Miniature Engine.
A miniature engine whose power was generated by the axis of the sun was successfully demonstrated in an Eastern college recently. A parabolic mirror focused the rays upon a test tub of water the heat caused the steam which in turn operated the tiny motor at a high rate of speed.

Prize Ukulele Thief.
I have a notion to give you the address of all the ukulele players in the city. You are a most public benefactor. Thus spoke Judge Talbot of New York city when Dennis Murphy was arraigned for stealing five ukuleles from a freight car. Murphy was paroled.
